VIENNA, VA (November 4, 2013) – FUTREND has achieved Microsoft Silver partner status in both application development and collaboration and content. “Silver competencies represent consistent capability, expertise, and commitment.”

Not only does this status show customers, both existing and potential, that FUTREND has been recognized by Microsoft as being competent in Microsoft technologies and is a part of the Microsoft partner network, it also shows that FUTREND has Microsoft-certified employees who are currently supporting clients in these technologies. FUTREND staff members have studied and passed required MS technology exams.

Serving the Federal Government since December 2001, FUTREND’s success was founded on the principle of assisting customers in achieving their missions by improving services, efficiencies, and effectiveness through leveraging technologies. By becoming a Microsoft Silver partner, FUTREND has access to all Microsoft software releases, as well as beta software releases before they become publicly available, allowing FUTREND to commit itself to utilizing Microsoft technologies for the benefit of its clients, as well as the company as a whole.

According to Technical Director, Ryan Basinger, “achieving partner status with Microsoft further demonstrates FUTREND’s technical skills in the fields of application development and collaboration and content.” He also stated that FUTREND plans on moving up and becoming a Microsoft Gold partner. “Gold will provide FUTREND technical employees with even greater access to Microsoft tools and software products.”

Congratulations Team FUTREND for the great achievement!
